REPORT OF LIBRARIAN

The number of books which the library has acquired since its beginning in 1897 has now reached 8195, but the number on the shelves is approximately a thousand less, many having been discarded when worn out, while a large number have been lost by contagious disease, fire or carelessness on the part of patrons in not returning those which they have borrowed. Volumes whose usefulness is past are either destroyed or stored in the small space which is available for such purposes.

The circulation has been large during the year; over 1300 more than it was ten years ago, and children make use of the books to a gratifying extent.

Respectfully submitted,

LILLIAN A. ODELL.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board of Greenland, N. H.:

It is my privilege to submit my first annual report as superintendent of the Greenland schools.

My term of office began on July 1, 1929, and since my personal knowledge of the school began then, I am unable to give the usual report for the school year which ended June 30, 1929. Interesting information gleaned from school registers may be had, however from the statistical tables appended to this report. I bespeak a careful reading of these tables by all parents, school officers and other interested persons. It is evident that we ought to increase our percentage of attendance and decrease the amount of tardiness. I suspect that ill health affects these two items unfavorably. If this is so, we ought to make our organization contribute materially to help parents keep children well. Tables V, VI, and VII contain data on costs of schools viewed from a number of angles.

As soon as possible after the opening of the present school year, a survey of the school was made to determine its needs and to make plans for meeting them. Appropriate intelligence tests were given to all the pupils of the school, thus providing the teachers with a better understanding of the abilities of their various pupils. General standardized achievement tests were also given in all grades, to enable us to take stock of work already done and to plan wisely. Apparent weaknesses in achievement were pointed out to the teachers in the beginning, and they proceeded to their task. Various daily and weekly informal checks during the fall led us to hope that we were progressing. The half-year has just ended and we have finished giving the achievement tests a second time. The progress made in almost all cases is satisfactory and we shall continue the process of teaching and testing throughout the year.

Responding whole-heartedly to a call for genuine teamwork, Mr. Holt and his teachers have developed a well ordered and disciplined school, a school properly behaved not only in the classroom but in all parts of the plant and at all times of the day. They deserve our thanks.

The response of the teachers and of Miss Marden, the school nurse, to the call for more cleanliness on the part of the children, for more care of luncheon boxes, rubbers, and wraps, and for the quick and sure detection of contagious diseases, has been generous and productive of results. Recess and noon-hour activities have been so organized as to be enjoyable and to contribute to the morale of the school.

Miss Marden visited the school thirteen times from October 1 to February 1; many of these visits lasted all day. The regular inspections have been made and parents have been notified of defects. In many cases Miss Marden has visited homes to explain the importance of attention to defects.

A thoroughly clean, well-heated and ventilated schoolhouse contributes in an almost unbelievable degree to the good morale of a school. Mr. and Mrs. Sturtevant have realized this, and I am sure, have given many extra hours of work as their contribution to good morale.

We have taken special pains to prepare grades seven and eight thoroughly for high school, by duplicating, so far as possible, the courses given in the Junior High School of Portsmouth.

A permanent record for every pupil in our school has now been established. This record begins with the marks of grade one and will be kept throughout the grades.

The plan of our schoolhouse is excellent. We have not only abundance of light and ventilation, but we have usefulness and beauty of architecture and setting. Like all buildings, however, ours needs constant watching and repairing. We ought to remember, of course, that our building used as it is for a community center, is subjected to unusual wear and tear. To make the building thoroughly presentable, sanitary, and satisfactory, considerable interior painting and varnishing, especially in the auditorium and toilets, should be done. The exterior woodwork also is in great need of paint. Minor repairs to plumbing are needed. Our children are constantly in danger from icy steps and falling icicles. The roof has leaked during one or two rain-storms this year. Both these matters should receive attention.

It is clearly demonstrated in our school that many persons, agencies, and officers contribute to whatever success we have. I would not close my report to you, therefore, without expressing thanks to School Board, teachers, janitors, school nurse, health officer, district officers, selectmen, and the Parent-Teacher Association for individual and collective contributions to the good cause.

Respectfully submitted,

CLIFTON A. TOWLE,

Superintendent of Schools.
